Shekhar Pawar

Landscape Architect

Shekhar strongly believe that great environment gives birth to greater ideas and beliefs. Brought up in the capital, I often visited various tourist attractions of the city during the school trips and family outings. I have spent my adolescence admiring, observing and closely examining the nature and its relationship with the built environment. Inspired by the beauty of the nature, I was determined to involve myself with it someway and so began with the architecture.

A landscape architect can bring in a huge difference, especially in urban areas where nature is diminishing. He connects nature with the city and can transform concrete things in a balance way with proper landscaping. Landscape is a very sensitive subject in which one needs to give high attention as one is dealing with live elements like plants, water and trees etc.
